DIED, on the 7th instant, of the Typhus feve in the 34th year of her age, RENEE FAWCET wife of Wm. Fawcett; to an affectionate wife, tender and anxious mother, were added all t virtues that render the female character ami ble—her memory will long be cherished by who knew her worth. FEB 11, 1814

DIED—At Lower Dublin, Philadelphia cou ty, on Monday last, the Reverend SAMUE JONES, D. D. He commenced the career this immortal life, January 14, 1735, in Battu Parish, Glamorganshire Wales. When but t years old he came with his parents to this cou try. He graduated in the Arts in the college Philadelphia. On the 8th of January, 1763, was ordained pastor of the united baptist chur of Southampton and Pennepeck. On the sep ation of the former, over the latter he continu his pastoral charge until the day of his death making in the whole a period of more than h a century. His only surviving child is M Harris, consort of Theophilus Harris, Esq.
Lower Dublin

Dr. Jones possessed superior talents. His intellect was naturally strong, and his faculty discriminating unusually acute. In divinity, favorite study, he was a master—Few men we better acquainted with the bearings of religio controversy, or could place them in a more forming light. The accuracy of his judgeme united with the pious integrity of his principl occasioned his being sought after by church when pressed with difficulties, and procured the high respect of his brethren in the Phil de Baptist Association, and throughout the uni His mind in his final conflict was supported cheered by the evangelic doctrines, of which had so long been an able defender. He has len like the oak of the mountain, and has co to the grave as a stock of corn fully ripe. morning friends will follow him in their revi contemplations to that eternal rest, where,

In sacred order rang'd along,
Saints new-releas'd from death,
Join the blest seraphs' warbling breath,
And aid the immortal song.

DIED, on Saturday, the 5th inst. at Newto Bucks County, the Rev. JAMES BOYD, in 71st year of his age, upwards of forty years which he had preached the gospel of Christ his flock in that place. His piety, his mild amiable disposition, and his virtues have rend ed his memory dear to his friends. No one co behold this truly good man in his late linger disorder (which he bore with uncomplain meekness) but must have been forcibly stru with the sublimity of that religion which arms death of its terrors, and robs the grave its victory. In contemplating a life so well sp and a death so calm and resigned, we cannot frain from exclaiming—"Let me die the death the righteous, and let my last end be like his."

DIED, on the 7th instant, of the Typhus fever, in the 34th year of her age, RENEE FAWCETT, wife of Wm. Fawcett; to an affectionate wife, a tender and anxious mother, were added all the virtues that render the female character amiable—her memory will long be cherished by all who knew her worth. FEB 11 1814

DIED—At Lower Dublin, Philadelphia county, on Monday last, the Reverend SAMUEL JONES, D. D. He commenced the career of this immortal life, January 14, 1735, in Battus's Parish, Glamorganshire Wales. When but two years old he came with his parents to this country. He graduated in the Arts in the college of Philadelphia. On the 8th of January, 1763, he was ordained pastor of the united baptist church of Southampton and Pennepeck. On the separation of the former, over the latter he continued his pastoral charge until the day of his death—making in the whole a period of more than half a century. His only surviving child is Mrs. Harris, consort of Theophilus Harris, Esq. of Lower Dublin.

Dr. Jones possessed superior talents. His intellect was naturally strong, and his faculty of discriminating unusually acute. In divinity, his favorite study, he was a master—Few men were better acquainted with the bearings of religious controversy, or could place them in a more informing light. The accuracy of his judgement, united with the pious integrity of his principles, occasioned his being sought after by churches when pressed with difficulties, and procured him the high respect of his brethren in the Philadelphia Baptist Association, and throughout the union. His mind in his final conflict was supported and cheered by the evangelic doctrines, of which he had so long been an able defender. He has fallen like the oak of the mountain, and has come to the grave as a stock of corn fully ripe. His morning friends will follow him in their reviving contemplations to that eternal rest, where,

In sacred order rang'd along,
Saints new-releas'd from death,
Join the blest seraphs' warbling breath,
And aid the immortal song.

DIED, on Saturday, the 5th inst. at Newtown, Bucks County, the Rev. JAMES BOYD, in the 71st year of his age, upwards of forty years of which he had preached the gospel of Christ to his flock in that place. His piety, his mild and amiable disposition, and his virtues have rendered his memory dear to his friends. No one could behold this truly good man in his late lingering disorder (which he bore with uncomplaining meekness) but must have been forcibly struck with the sublimity of that religion which disarms death of its terrors, and robs the grave of its victory. In contemplating a life so well spent and a death so calm and resigned, we cannot refrain from exclaiming—"Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his."
